HOW TO WEAR A CHIC PAPOOSE BABY SLING

CHOOSE THE SIZE THAT'S RIGHT FOR YOU.

Petite

Generally fits petite builds, who wear misses size 4 and under. Fit could vary depending on height and bust size.

Regular

Typically fits regular misses sizes 6 through 14, though the fit could vary depending upon individual height and bust size.

Plus

Best fits women who wear size 16 and above. Also fits most men with broad shoulders. 6 feet tall and above.

Baby's bottom should rest at the hip.

Sizing Tips: Two important factors influence the fit of your sling; Height and torso length- be sure the sling hits your hip, not your ribs, if you are long waisted you may need to go a size up, or down if vice versa. How broad/narrow your shoulders are; if they are very broad, you may need to go a size up, vice versa for narrow shoulders. Our sizes work for the majority of our customers, however, every so often someone finds they do not fit any of our sizes. If this is the case, please speak to your retailer about how to get a custom size. Smalls and larges are available for those that fit in between our standard sizes through your Chic Papoose retailer or direct from the Chic Papoose website.

CHOOSE THE POSITION THAT'S RIGHT FOR YOUR CHILD.

Place the sling over your head, and bring one arm through, like a sash. The "comfy curve" seam goes towards your child's bottom. Adjust the sling at your shoulder for comfort; spread it out a bit, fold it in half or twist over to tighten it. Your sling fits correctly when the baby is sitting at a comfortable hip level.

Itsy Bitsy Ones

Newborns feel safe and secure, resting hammock-style in their sling, worn at the front of the body. Make sure no fabric covers their face, and that their chins are not resting on their chests.

Little'ns

As they gain head control, they love being upright, taking in the world around them. Cradle them in front, facing out, sitting cross-legged in their own cozy little comfortable nest.

6 mos.—Toddlers

Sitting in style astride your hip, kiddo will be calm and happy watching your world. Feel daring? Slide the older ones around piggy back style. Keep a hand on a leg until you are sure your little monkey can hold on!

COMMON SENSE SAFETY STATEMENT:

Use with great care. Ultimate responsibility for the safety of the child is held by the person using the sling. The child could fall out. Always keep a hand on the baby and keep fabric from covering his/her face. And make sure that newborns are resting with their heads back and that their chins are not resting on their chest.
